Annual Report
2018-2019

We're on the verge of an extraordinary moment: In 2020, Horizons turns 40. This annual report — covering the 18-month period of January 2018 to June 2019, because we transitioned to a new fiscal year — is a brief look back as we head into our special anniversary year.

By the end of this 18-month period, we were closing in on achieving a historic goal. As part of our groundbreaking Now and Forever Campaign, we had secured $95 million of our $100 million goal in anticipated legacy gifts. Now, only months later, we have exceeded that goal — an unprecedented achievement for our community. What this means is that Horizons will always be there to meet our community's needs, no matter what they might be. Even as our community remains under siege in today's political climate, we are stronger knowing that we have never been more prepared for tomorrow.

In large part, these recent months have been about preparing for the future. Earlier this year, we released the SF Bay Area LGBTQ Community Needs Assessment, which examines the needs of our community and, in so doing, charts the path forward for our movement. We are on the verge of launching a new strategic plan that outlines how the foundation will lead the way. And as we transition to our next chapter, we just adopted a new visual identity and launched a new website to match.

Though preparing for the future has been a large focus, meeting the urgent needs of today remains critical. This year was the first that Give OUT Day, our national day of giving for the LGBTQ community, raised over $1 million, providing immediate funds for hundreds of LGBTQ nonprofits across all 50 states, D.C., and Puerto Rico. And Horizons' grantmaking in 2018 exceeded $4.8 million, helping us earn recognition by the national advocacy group Funders for LGBTQ Issues as one of the top ten funders of the LGBTQ movement of all time.

Next year, we'll celebrate 40 years of our critical work: investing in LGBTQ organizations, strengthening a culture of LGBTQ giving, and securing our community's future for generations to come. Before we celebrate and begin Horizons' next decade, we give thanks to those whose recent support has brought us to this moment.

In gratitude and in community,

DONOR STORY

The Fight for Equality Has Changed, But It's Not Over

To Horizons donors AJ Shepard and Anthony Chiu, much has changed in the LGBTQ community over the years, and much has not. They are grateful that young LGBTQ people are more likely to be accepted, and vividly remember a time when “we were not as comfortable.” But they also note that young people in the SF Bay Area face a range of intensifying issues. “Their stability and lives are still at risk.”

Shepard and Chiu see Horizons as a “mother organization” of LGBTQ nonprofits in the SF Bay Area, well placed to continue the fight for equality and identify organizations that will effectively address these dynamic and ever-changing issues. “We’re proud to help them do that.”

Financials

Total assets have increased to over $36 million. Notably, 87% of operating expenses supported grants and programs. Horizons continues to keep costs low, with only 13% of operating expenditures supporting fundraising and management costs. ### GRANTEE STORY

How Drag Queen Story Hour Builds Community in Contra Costa County

A drag queen sits in front of a crowd, reading a story. Some have traveled for nearly an hour to share this moment with their children. Others are LGBTQ seniors without children who have come to the event for a sense of community. "It is amazing how one little event can change everyone's life," describes Bella Aldama, the drag persona of Christian Aguirre and star of Drag Queen Story Hour, a program of Horizons' grantee partner Rainbow Community Center of Contra Costa County.

Recently, Drag Queen Story Hour has been the subject of local and national controversy, with protesters alleging that the event is "warping kids." Yet Drag Queen Story Hour fiercely goes on, bringing together the LGBTQ community in celebration of our identities and differences.
